Men's Underwear At $1.00 a Garment.

It's a popular price, and to meet the great demand we've secured the finest lot of dollar Underwear to be found in Richmond.

The best American makes, including white wool, natural gray wool, with either single or double-breasted shirts, and scarlet wool in either single or double-breasted shirts.

The above are the heavier grades of wool. Now, for us a in milder weather, such as we've had during some of the past week, there's na-'ural gray wool in medium weights.

Some people can't wear wool at all. Our fine Cooper ribbed Underwear will suit them. It's all cotton, but woven closely, heavy weight.

The best Underwear ever made at $1.50 is the Norfolk and New Brunswick, in natural gray. "Knit to fit" is their trade-mark, and it's a good one.

50c. buys good Underwear here-very good indeed. Fleece-lined and the heaviest and best that's to be had. Drawers shaped around the hips. Shirts trimmed with Silk. Gray, Blue and Ecru.

THREE PATIENTS TREATED FOR RABIES

Brother and Sisters from Mad Dog.

Or. Hoen, at the head of the Pasteur Department of the Virginia Hospital, has three interesting patients now under his treatment. Two are little girls, and the third is a man,

Ruth Hope Peters, ageg ten, is the older or the girls. She was bitten by a strange dog while at play in her father's yard in Amherst county. She is the daughter of Mr. James Peters, a miller of that county. The dog attacked her little brothers and sisters, and she tried to fight the cur away, saving them, but heing bitten herself. Her hand was severly bitten.

The second child is Terenniah Deni, aged eight, daughter of Mr. W. H. C. Deal, of Deep Creek, Norfolk county, Va. She was bitten also by a strange cur. Her little face was terribly lacerated in several places. Both children are responding admirably to the treatment. Ruth Hope Peters, ageg ten,

Social and Personal

At the annual meeting of the Richmond Art Club last evening, Major James H. Dooley was re-elected president; Mrs. M. C. Patterson, vice-president, and Miss Elizabeth R. Selden, secretary and treas-

Billaboth R. Seiden, secretary and teasurer.

The following were elected members of the board: Mr. Arthur B. Clarke, Mr. R. A. Lancester, Jr., Mr. John Rutherfoord, Miss Katherine McIntire, Mr. Alexander Weddell, Miss Annie Gray, Mrs. Albert F. Huntt, Mr. E. V. Valentine, Miss Rate Meredith, Miss Julia Wooldridge, Miss Bessie Catlin and Mrs. George Ben Johnston. A large number of new members were also elected.

After the business meeting an informal reception was held in honor of Miss Ann Fletcher, and refreshments were served. The club rooms presented a gay and animated scene, pretty decorations being in roses and chrysantiemums, which accorded well with the charming young

Miss Fletcher, who stood in the front parlor, was in soft shades of mauve and looked remarkably well. The walls were hung with the splendid results of her twelve weeks' work in Parls.

Among the specially fine figure pieces, a Breton peasant woman, with her baby in her arms, a Capucin monk and the portrait of a poet, a Mr. Lattimore, of Washington, who is living in Parls, seemed to catch the eye wherever one turned. The figure of the post was instinct with genius and with pathetic sadness.

stinct with genius and with pathetic sadness.

Beneath the portrait were some lines written by the poet, which said:

'I sit and watch the press of life,
 I feel its leaden pain;
All vanishes as blown mist,
Only the dreams remain."

In an adjoining room was an excellent collection of Mr. M. M. Straus' work in connection with his arts' and crafts' department. A green candlestick of quaint design in copper, a Tiffany-colored copper tray and a book-plate designed by Mr. Straus for Mrs. Katherine Miller Gunn were striking examples of talent and eleverness in conception and execution.

The opening meeting of the Art Club was well calculated through these exhibits, and through the enthusiasm of all members present, to inspire a belief of progress for the coming year beyond anything yet achieved.

Mr. and Mrs. John Slebold Dobler spen

Mr. and Mrs. John Siebold Dobler spent Thursday with Mrs. Dobler's aunt, Mrs. M. A. Schaffer, of West Main Street, leaving Thursday night for Baltimore. They came to Richmond from Old Paint where they spent several days of their bridal trip, their marriage having taken place at the home of the bride, in Easton, Pa., Tuesday last.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Dobler are well known in Richmond. The bride, before her marriage, was Miss Mattle Louise Schaffer, who has frequently visited here. Mr. Dobler, whose home is in Baltimore, was for about two years associated with the electrical department of the Smith-Courtney Company. During that time he made many Richmond friends who will be interested in hearing of his marriage.
